Alpine Waste to hold America Recycles Day open house

Nov. 7 -- To celebrate America Recycles Day, Alpine Waste & Recycling will host an open house on Nov. 15 at its newly expanded recycling plant in Denver.

The $1.1 million recycling plant was recently expanded, making room for a second sorting line, according to a news release.

During the open house, the company said visitors will see the machinery that sends common household recycling materials through an automated filtering process, separating such items as paper, plastic, aluminum and cardboard.
